Key Findings & Highlights

NTT DATA leads with advisory services post-business consulting on roadmap planning, architectural design for what holistic environments look like, architect design, and build and migrate project work. The scope of projects could be a one-day advisory workshop to a five-year deal with five months of transition and project work, backed by a steady state and evolutionary type of work. NTT DATA also focuses on developer enablement, particularly around modern public cloud application needs, and, for example, whether they are securely delivering code updates to applications regardless of where they run, whether its public cloud, private cloud, abstraction platform, or third-party developer platforms including Tanzu, OpenShift, and Kubernetes.
